Description	Students from the Department of Lifelong Learning and Extension (DLLE) actively participated in the Udaan Festival organized by the DLLE committee of Mumbai University, held at a college campus in Powai. The event provided a vibrant platform for students from various colleges to engage in competitions centered around social awareness and creativity. The participants represented the college in three major competitions. Firstly, the team performed a street play based on the theme of gender bias and social inequality, where they presented a role-reversal concept highlighting the challenges faced due to gender discrimination. The performance aimed to create awareness and promote empathy among the audience. Secondly, students participated in the poster-making competition, where their creative representation of civic and social themes stood out. The college secured the first prize, with Anupriya Kushwaha being recognized for her outstanding work and creativity. Thirdly, students also took part in the creative writing competition, where they expressed their thoughts and perspectives on relevant social issues through written content. The overall participation was enthusiastic and reflected the students' commitment towards spreading awareness and engaging in meaningful activities.
Conclusion/ Outcome	The participation in the Udaan Festival was a valuable and enriching experience for the students. It provided them with an opportunity to showcase their talents, gain exposure, and interact with participants from different colleges. Winning the first prize in the poster-making competition was a significant achievement and a moment of pride for the college. The event successfully encouraged creativity, awareness, and confidence among students.
